

Teen Project

Give Me Shelter Benefit

The Knitting Factory in Hollywood hosted the Teen Project's very first "Give Me Shelter" benefit on March 14 with an all-star rock concert. Teen Project is a nonprofit corporation dedicated to providing homes for emancipated foster youth. Guests enjoyed a memorable evening that included a silent auction and a show with a musical lineup starting with The Section Quartet and followed by Linda Perry, Dave Navarro, Stephen Perkins and Billy Morrison. All proceeds went to Teen Project for housing and college funds for the more than 25,000 homeless foster children in California. Sponsors for the event included Haas Factory Outlet, Gerald & Kathleen Chamales, The Waitt Family Foundation and Family Home Loans.

Photos by John Shearer (WireImage) and Drew Schwartz